Goals for European Ministries

1. To continually evaluate ways to serve the European church in the areas of evangelism, discipleship & encouragement, and when feasible, utilize lay people from the North American church.
2. To identify national pastors or ministries who have a heart for evangelism & discipleship.
 - A. Look for ways to come along side them and encourage them in their ministry.
 - B. Seek opportunities to offer them IM short-term ministries to support their work. (i.e. - English Camps, Discipleship Camps, Women's Conferences, Basketball Camps, Family English Camps, etc.)
3. To purposefully invite & train national lay people to be involved in the camps and in the follow-up after the camps, with an emphasis on training them in relational evangelism & one-to-one discipleship.
4. To work towards very controlled recruitment for the evangelistic camps so that follow-up is assured.
5. To assemble information on the locations of other ministries and "able" churches within the country who can assist us in the follow-up of evangelistic outreaches.
6. To draw as many nationals as possible into a concerted prayer effort prior to any evangelistic or discipling ministries that we conduct.
7. To model the "One Another" principles as a staff in the countries where we serve.
8. To broaden the vision for & understanding of missions in the North American church through involving its pastors & lay people in meaningful cross-cultural ministry serving the European church.
9. To challenge the North American church to pray for and send both short-term and career workers into the harvest fields in Europe.
10. To attempt to maximize the impact of serving as short-term missionaries on the lay people's lives that we send into Europe & to minister to them as they work beside us.
11. To continually evaluate ways to maximize the impact of returning short term missionaries on their local churches in North America.
12. To pray for & strategize for revival in the European and North American church.
13. To provide encouragement, support & care for our career missionary staff so they can flourish personally and in their ministries in Europe & North America.
